

CTSA Partners With Casa Grande Regional Medical Center

December 19, 2007

Cancer Treatment Services Arizona is partnering with Casa Grande Regional Medical Center to offer the most advanced technology and highest quality of healthcare in the treatment of cancer.

The comprehensive treatment facility is staffed with two highly trained, full-time physicians who provide outpatient chemotherapy and radiation oncology. Cancer Treatment Services can address all aspects of outpatient cancer care with state of the art technology that is usually available only at large university medical centers. Dr. Michael Stanek and Dr. Ajay Bhatnagar have come together with Susan Vannoni, Director of Operations, and bring over 75 years of experience.

"Coming from Ohio State University Medical Center and my partner Dr. Bhatnagar who comes from University of Pittsburgh Medical Center, we are excited to bring university level care to the community of Casa Grande and Pinal County." , states Dr. Michael Stanek, who is a fellow of Osteopathic medicine and board certified in Hematology and Medical Oncology.

The clinic serves as the U.S. hub and training center for Cancer Treatment Services International (CTSI), a multi-national organization that is owned and operated by a core group of oncology physicians and business men with substantial experience in the development, operations and networking of cancer services on a national and international level.
